Dear Friends,

We would like to invite you to an exciting conference hosted by the Kellogg Teams and Groups (KTAG) Center Conference on CONFLICT IN TEAMS at Northwestern University on June 24-25, 2005.

The conference will be hosted by Leigh Thompson and Kristin Behfar, both of Northwestern's Kellogg School of Management. KTAG has assembled an impressive list of international scholars to present their work on conflicts in teams. The conference will be held at the James L. Allen Center, 2169 Sheridan Road, on Northwestern University's Evanston campus. It will kick off with an optional group lunch on Friday, June 24th at 12:00 noon. The opening session will start at 1:00pm, and the conference will end on Saturday, June 25th at 3:00pm.

This is not a closed conference but we do have a seating capacity limit. If you would like to bring a graduate student or share this invitation with a friend, that would be fine, provided space is available. You will be responsible for your own transportation and hotel arrangements. For more information, please visit the KTAG Conference website at:
